

PARC NATIONAL D'OPÉMICAN

Park warden wildlife technician

(Job application bank)

The mandate

Under the supervision of the Park's conservation and education officer, the park warden duties are directly related to various areas of this service (conservation, education, research and safety). The employee develops natural resource management activities and collaborates on implementing the conservation plan through the application of direct actions. The employee provides its expertise and professional support in the preparation, execution and monitoring of works affecting the natural environment and requiring protection interventions. The employee may also be required to collaborate on issues related to the protection of the park's cultural and archaeological heritage.

The employee ensures compliance with various laws and regulations put into place to protect resources and territory. The employee works in the planning, implementing and monitoring of research activities in the park. He proposes environmental mitigation measures and carries out technical work (measure, sample, survey,...) for study or development projects of the park.

The employee participates in various activities within the safety program to ensure security of clients and staff. The employee communicates to customers and staff knowledge on natural and cultural resources by raising awareness of the park's conservation mission. He collaborates to the development of educational programs and occasionally participates in interpretive activities. The employee performs other duties related to the position.
